FUNERAL IS HELD FOR LITTLE GIRL

Large Concourse Pays Last Respects To Elizabeth Thomas

The name of the driver of the automobile, which killed Elizabeth Thomas, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Thomas, of near Hartselle, Wednesday morning, is known to the Hartselle police.

Announcement to this effect was made to The Daily today over long distance telephone by J. C. Rogers, chief of police of Hartselle.

Chief Rogers added that he had obtained a written confession from the driver the name of whom he declined to make public at this time.

"I promised the driver," Chief Rogers stated, "that before I made public the name of the driver, I would give him an opportunity to make a public statement of the matter giving his side of the case and the reasons for departing from the scene."

"I realize," the Chief added, "that in connecting the names of individuals with the confession, but I will respect the promise that I made."

Mr. Rogers declared that no formal charges have been preferred against the driver or occupants of the machine.

Funeral services were held yesterday for the child and interment was made at Forest Chapel cemetery, a large concourse of citizens following the body to its last resting place.

The Thomas child was said to have been returning home Wednesday morning, with an older sister, when, at a point near the southern terminus of the Shoal Creek bridge, Elizabeth was struck by a car. Death was thought to have been resulted almost instantly.

ALBANY-DECATUR IN FIRST PLACE

Best Sanitation Rate For Milk In The Entire State

Albany and Decatur have just caused gratification over the announcement by state health authorities of the fact that the Twin Cities have edged to first place in the milk sanitation ratings for the entire state.

The chart, just released by the state health department, shows the Twin Cities ahead by a good margin. Albany and Decatur lead also in percentage of pasteurized milk and are exceeded only by Huntsville and Tuscaloosa in the percentage of milk in milk consumption.

In consideration of the fact that the milk regulation ordinances have been effective here only about a year, records made by the Twin Cities are regarded as unusually good.

John Allen Comes Back To His Home

John Allen, who disappeared more than a week ago from his home here, returned today, it was stated by Mrs. Allen, wife who instituted a search for the missing man. Mrs. Allen declared that the man had been in Alabama cities. She had asked Alabama newspapers to conduct a search for the missing man through their news columns.

TWO MEN SOUGHT ON MURDER CHARGE

Nude Body Taken From Lake Ontario Is Identified Today

(Associated Press)

GENESCO, N. Y., May 14—Two men were being sought today in connection with the murder of Mrs. Vivian Thompson Jennings, of Mt. Morris, whose body was found last April in Lake Ontario, near Henderson, Jefferson County.

She had been missing since November, 1925.

One was her estranged husband, Frederick A. Jennings, a chemist. The other is a man, apparently skilled in surgery, who murdered the 32-year old mother of two children, drew the blood from her body by cutting arteries and threw the nude corpse into Lake Ontario or its tributaries.

The body, disinterred from its shallow temporary grave in the cemetery at Henderson has just been identified by the mother, Mrs. Carrie Thompson, of Attica and two brothers, Clifford Thompson and Harold Thompson, as well as by William H. Cole, a friend of the family.

Frederick Jennings, the husband, a chemist, left Rochester in 1917, when he became estranged from his wife, to enlist for service in the world war.

ALLEGES BREWERY VIOLATES THE LAW

Caustic Letter Is Sent By Representative To Sec. Andrews

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 14—Assistant Secretary Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement, was told today by Representative LaGuardia, progressive socialist, New York, that it "seems to be common knowledge" in Pittsburgh that the Hazelwood Brewing company, of that city, is making "real beer."

The New York representative, in a letter to the dry chief, said:

"It seems to be common knowledge in and about the city of Pittsburgh that the Hazelwood Brewing company is running full blast and that real beer is flowing from the vats as fast as mature brewing and law of gravitation permit. I have also been informed that violations have been filed against this brewery in the past. 'It seems strange to be that what is general knowledge in Pittsburgh of a flagrant and brazen violation of law is now known to the prohibition officials, or if known, is entirely ignored by them.'"

SENIORS' SOX DRAW A "BAN" FROM SCHOOL

Hair ribbon, knee length skirts and socks may be cute, cunning and comfortable for lassies of the elementary grades, but when they adorn the feminine form of sedate seniors, that is an entirely different matter.

Members of the senior class of the Albany high school decreed yesterday as "freshman" day for the class, but when some seniors appeared at school dressed as youngsters, they were reminded by school authorities, instructions to go home and change their clothing to more customary habiliments that they were "big girls now."

LONDON, May 14—The British industrial crisis began to clear rapidly today.

The railway men, who had remained out notwithstanding official termination of the general strike, signed an agreement with the company. Traffic will be resumed as speedily as possible.

Premier Baldwin told the house of commons he had framed proposals for settlement of the coal miners' strike and these would be placed immediately in the hands of the men and the employers. The indications for an agreement are better.

The trades union congress said there was a marked easement in the tenseness of the situation throughout the country, the employers being increasingly inclined to discuss reasonable basis for resumption of work.

An agreement was reached between the London Underground Electric Rail way company and its employees, under which the subway and affiliated tram and bus lines will resume normal service shortly.

Reports also received from all sections of Great Britain indicated that the unions and employers have gotten together to such an extent that industry should be able to right itself shortly.

Premier Baldwin's proposals for mediation in the mine situation were transmitted to both miners and employers this afternoon.

CUNNINGHAM TRIAL MAY END SATURDAY

Defense Continues Its Attacks on Woman's Character

(Associated Press)

ANNISTON, Ala., May 14—Indications today were that the case of Mark Cunningham, alleged hammer slayer, charged with the murder, February 2, of Lum Scott, young Calhoun county farmer, would not reach the jury before Saturday.

Efforts of the defense to discredit the character of Mrs. Pauline Scott widow of the dead man, continued through this morning. In it the testimony of Emma Jenkins, her brother, Luther Jenkins; A. J. Hood, Walter Cunningham, brother of the defendant; and Mrs. Mark Cunningham, wife were heard.

Emma Jenkins testified that she had heard Lum Scott quarrel with his wife and threaten to leave her because of her intimacy with Luther Jenkins. Luther Jenkins, the brother, told that Lum Scott had come to their home once and found him (Jenkins) seated on the bed with his arms about Mrs. Scott.

A. J. Hood and Walter Cunningham testified regarding two mysterious notes, said to have been found in the Scott home shortly after the murder. These notes, introduced by the defense, were intended further to discredit the character of Mrs. Scott and to aid in establishing the guilt of a mysterious person, signing his name "Speedy S." to the murder.

Mrs. Mark Cunningham testified that she had telephoned her husband between five and six o'clock on the afternoon of the murder; had retired later and that he came in about nine p. m. Asked where he had been, he told he was looking for rooms, she testified.

LOWERING CASING AT ENGLISH NO. 1

Bailing Probably Will Be Resumed Early In Next Week

Work of lowering the casing in English number one, well being sunk near here by the Albany-Decatur Oil and Gas company, now is going forward officials of the company announced.

It was expected that the task of bailing the water out of the well would be resumed early next week. It was pointed out that the officials of the company had reached the conclusion the casing coming into the well, and it was deemed advisable to lower the shaft a few feet more.

This work, it is believed, will shut off the water, which will be drained out of the well and officials then will be in a position to determine their next step. Officials continue very optimistic over the outlook for success.

WARSAW GRIPPED BY TERROR WHILE FOREIGNERS FLEE

Headquarters Of The Revolutionists Are Reported Bombed

FIGHTS CONTINUE ON CITY STREETS

Loyal Troops Are Said To Be Marching To Aid President

(Associated Press)

LONDON, May 14—The Polish legation has received a telegram from Warsaw, timed at noon, saying that peace and order have been restored in the city.

BERLIN, May 14—Government air forces are reported to have bombed the revolutionary headquarters of Marshal Pilsudski, in Warsaw. It is estimated that 450 persons have been killed in street fighting thus far.

Foreigners are fleeing the country. Neither side has yet gained the upper hand in the struggle for control in Poland. This conclusion is reached through a digest of fragmentary dispatches up to late forenoon.

Street fighting in Warsaw continues. Marshal Joseph Pilsudski holds the northern section of the capital and controls the bridges over the Vistula river.

President Wojciechowski and the cabinet remained in the Belvedere palace, where they fled on the approach of the revolutionary troops. They refused to heed Pilsudski's demand for their surrender.

The government is counting upon the arrival of loyal forces from the garrison of the provincial cities. War Minister Malcewski is directing the movement of these troops, being in communication with the outside country.

Provincial regiments, under Generals Haller and Skiorski, are reported marching to the government's rescue.

The Paris newspapers head that Pilsudski has been "slightly wounded," but no details are given.

Terror reigned in Warsaw. Bands of civilians, shouting for Pilsudski and assaulting those who refused to bare their heads.

Foreigners, alarmed by the disorders, are fleeing the country.

THEN consider little things: Theodore Kappel, San Francisco janitor, tired of poverty and hard work rented a fine room hung the walls with velvet, spread a handsome yellow silk curtain over the bed, bought and wore a "full dress" suit representing his idea of luxury, arranged tall candles around his bed, turned on the gas and died.

At about the same time Tom Murray, a desperado who killed two guards in the effort to escape from prison, hanged himself in his cell. So goes the world. Be grateful if you have no serious worries.

PEARY, American, was first of our era to reach the north pole. For years he tried, spent months locked in the ice crawling over the snow dragged by dogs.

Commander Byrd, America, is the first that ever flew over the pole, making the trip in a few hours, driven by the power of gasoline hidden in the ice.

GARNETT RESTS WELL FOLLOWING ACCIDENT

Holland Pleads Guilty To Two Charges and Receives Penalty

Howard Garnett is resting comfortably at Benevolent Hospital and Lee Holland, according to police record, is facing a fine of $207.20, a 60 day street sentence and a revoke of license to drive a car as the result of an automobile accident Thursday night in which Garnett was hurt. The accident occurred on West Moulton street about 9:30 o'clock. Holland was arrested later by officers Stewart and Thompson.

According to information given today young Garnett was riding a bicycle on West Moulton street, just off Second avenue when he is alleged to have been struck from the rear by Dodge roadster turning into the street. People close by picked up Garnett and took him to the office of Dr. A. M. Roan where medical attention was given. Garnett complained of suffering with his shoulder or back. After an x-ray examination had been made the injured youth was removed to the Benevolent hospital and was declared today to be resting comfortably.

It is alleged that after striking Garnett the driver of the automobile did not stop and working upon the assumption that the car was a Dodge roadster, which description was given by witnesses at the time of the crash, officers went to the home of young Holland and placed him under arrest. It was found that the motometer cap was missing from the car alleged to have been driven by Holland and a motometer cap was picked up near the scene of the accident, it was stated at the city hall. Young Holland pleaded guilty to two charges in police court today and received penalties. It is understood that young Holland did not speak of the accident.

A. T. ALLEN CONFERS WITH LOCAL PEOPLE REGARDING HIS PLAN

Ohio Concern Reported To Be Interested In Local Field

$5,000 WEEKLY PAYROLL LOOMS

Steps Already Taken To Procure Necessary Asphalt Acreage

A. T. Allen, of Birmingham, representative of a Cincinnati concern is here with a view of establishment of a large asphalt plant, it was announced today by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Allen was in conference with representatives of the Junior Chamber and other local business men. He is expected to be here early next week, to explain his proposition in detail to the directors and members of the Junior Chamber and the business interests of the Twin Cities.

The preliminary plans for the concern involve about $200,000 of which amount a part would be handled by sales of stock in this territory, providing local representation on the board of directors.

The proposed plant would give employment to something over 100 men and would have a weekly payroll of about $5,000 a week.

Steps already have been taken to procure the necessary acreage for the mining of the asphalt and Mr. Allen talked most optimistically over the outlook for success of the proposition.

METHODISTS DEBATE PHRASING OF CREED

General Conference Is At Work Today On Special Business

(Associated Press)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 14—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south adjourned in an uproar here today, after an hour and a half's debate on adoption of a proposed constitution, during which time delegates divided along strictly unification and anti-unification lines, while discussing a clause giving laymen the power to call for a separate vote in annual conference.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 14—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church South plunged into heated debate shortly after the opening of today's session over the phrase "Holy Catholic Church" in the creed.

The question came up in the reading of the second article of a proposed constitution, which was the special order of the day. M. M. A. Childers, San Antonio, Texas, moved to strike out the phrase and substitute "Universal Church of God." Dr. W. A. Christian moved to "star" the "Holy Catholic" and add a footnote, explaining that the phrase did not mean the Roman Catholic church.

Dr. Christian's motion prevailed when the vote was taken.

Dr. Bascomb Anthony spoke in support of the original motion, while others spoke for and against the proposal.

Almost before the vote on the phrase change had been taken, Dr. J. A. Anderson, of Forest City, Ark., moved to strike out all of the article, which included statements of faith, creed and rule, and substitute the sentence "our doctrinal standards shall consist of the 25 articles of faith in Wesley's sermons and Wesley's note on the new Testament."

The motion was laid on the table without further debate.

QUINN MAKES HIS REPORT ON WORK

Commissioner Declares Conditions Better Over State

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 14.—Information on the progress of conservation in Alabama was given today by A. T. Quinn, state commissioner of game and fisheries. He referred to the formation of game and fish protective association, the taking of United Action by landowners in many instances to give complete protective where needed to game on their lands over a period of years and the restocking of depleted game areas, as evidences of advancement along the line of conservation.

During 1925, the commission said, more convictions for violation of game and fish laws were secured in Alabama than in any state south of the Ohio river. He mentioned among phases of the department's work, the restocking of suitable areas with quail, of which 6,000 have been brought into the state since the quail season closed, and "planted" in suitable well protected areas, the building of Alabama's first fish hatchery, and the placing of deer in the national forest in Northwestern Alabama, to furnish sport in future years.

"No more important question has engaged the minds of thoughtful men and women in recent years than the subject of conservation, especially as relates to the wild life of field, forest and stream and the habitat of those forms economically and aesthetically useful to man," Commissioner Quinn said.

"Unfortunately the mind and habits of man in his attitude to the things about him remain unchanged until he is finally forced to face the inevitable conclusion that unless proper steps be taken the mutation of his environment is certain.

"This is especially true in man's relation to all useful forms of wild life. Within the memory of the passing generation, here in Alabama, there was an abundant supply of every species of game bird and animals, known to this latitude. The hunter went forth to kill without consideration to the future. Then the term 'sportsman' was applied to the man who could go and with dog and gun, or rod and reel, and appropriate in a day the largest bag of game or fish. The 'crack-shot' who could kill the greatest number of quail or doves, or who could procure the largest string of fish with hook and line, was hailed among his fellows as the prize winner of the hour.

"Today, that type of man is about the least appreciated of any man in his community, and that kind of sport is outlawed. The terms 'sportsman' and 'conservationist' are synonymous. You cannot be one without being the other. The conservationist is one who believes that all wild life was placed here for the enjoyment and economic good of himself and his fellows, and he will not take more than his share at any time, leaving plenty for those who, like himself, enjoy a day afield.

"The history of wild life in America may be divided into three distinct periods, viz: The era of economy the era of commercialization, and the era of conservation.

"The ratio of wild life is indirectly proportional to population and directly proportional to extent of suitable area food and cover. Here in Alabama with a rapidly growing population, increased area, devoted to agriculture, with a continuous increase in the number of hunters and fishermen, we have been our wild life reduced from an apparent inexhaustible supply. The state of Alabama has enacted both restrictive and constructive laws for the preservation, protection and rehabilitation of all useful forms of native wild life and those forms which find refuge within her borders.

"The Alabama conservation program embraces protective, constructive and educational conservation.

ANAESTHETICS DEADEN OPERATION PAINS

This Great Boon to Humanity Should Remove the Fear of the Cutting Ordeal from One Needing Surgical Treatment.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

IT is rare for the discoverer or inventor to live long enough to realize the importance of his work. Mr. Edison is a notable exception; he has been able to participate in the benefits of many of his inventions.

There are few discoveries of greater value to the human family than the beneficial uses of the anesthetic. Previous to our knowledge of it operations were horrid things. No story of the inquisition is more terrible than the description of a major operation made before ether was used.

The value of the anesthetic has so impressed humanity, there is small wonder the honor of its discovery has been bitterly disputed. Like other discoveries in science, too, independent workers have attained to the same result, each entirely ignorant of what the others have done.

This is the case as regards ether, the anesthetic. Dr. William T. G. Morton, a Boston dentist, claimed to be first in the field. Dr. Charles T. Jackson, who lived in Morton's house, was another claimant. A second dentist, Dr. Horace Wells, of Hartford, Conn., sought the honor.

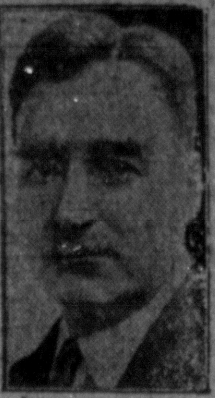

I have visited the room in the Massachusetts General Hospital, in Boston, where Dr. J. C. Warren performed the operation, said to be the first where ether was used to prevent pain. This was October 16, 1846.

But there have been many to dispute this claim to priority. Chief of these are the friends and admirers of Dr. Crawford W. Long, a country doctor, practicing in Jefferson, Jackson County, Georgia. It is said that on March 30, 1845, Dr. Long anesthetized a patient with ether and successfully operated the case.

Because of my great respect for his memory, it is interesting to me to know that the eminent Dr. J. Marion Sims, of New York, investigated Long's claims and proclaimed his belief that Dr. Long is the real discoverer of this boon to humanity.

On March 30, 1926, a marble statue of Dr. Long was unveiled in Statuary Hall, in the Capitol at Washington.

I am glad this has been done, but the discoverer of a method for complete anesthesia needs no monument of bronze or marble. He has a more enduring memorial in the hearts and souls of all those who must go upon the operating table. The most searching and extensive of operations are made without a moment of pain. As a result, surgery has progressed to its present high standing.

I know what it means to take ether. I realize from several experiences how blessed it is that the dread of the knife has disappeared before the knowledge that it does not hurt.

If you face the prospect of some operation, you need not worry over it a particle. The blessed anesthetic will make it painless and when it is all over you will be ashamed that you dreaded it.

All of us bless the discoverer of ether and join in honor to his memory.

activities, during the year 1925 we secured more conviction for infractions of the game and fish laws than any other state south of the Ohio river.

"During the past few months, the department has completed its first fish hatchery and stocked it with bass and bream, with an annual yielding capacity of more than one-half million fish. We have planted a total of 107 deer in suitable areas for propagation, and since the quail season closed we have brought from outside the state and planted 6,000 bobwhites in suitable well protected areas.

"A large number of landowners, under the direction of the department of game and fisheries, are throwing their lands together, and through mutual agreement and permitted for a number of years. These areas are protected from forest fires by the owners themselves and the state is helping them re-stock whenever needed.

"The department is not only charged with the responsibility for the protection and development of wild game birds, animals and fish, but song and insectivorous birds as well.

"It is an indisputable scientific fact that birds are nature's great instrument for the control of insect pest devastation, and the effectiveness of the control is in proportion to our bird population. Twenty cents out of every dollar's worth of the products of field, orchard and garden are consumed annually by devastating insects. How important, the proper protection of the bird life of our state."

Social Workers

Showing Interest

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 14.—Much interest is reported shown by social workers all over the state in the two weeks course that is being planned especially for trained workers from July 5 to 17 at Alabama College Montevallo. A six weeks course will be carried on during the general summer school for all people either interested in social work or wanting to review their technical training.

The two weeks course is primarily planned as one of stimulation and inspiration to all of the trained workers of the state. Miss Virginia Handley retiring director of the state child welfare department, and Miss Sara Axford the acting director, have just returned from a conference with Dr. O. C. Carmichael, the president of the college, and Miss Myrtle Brooks, head of the department of sociology, who with Miss Willie Zuber, the welfare worker of Shelby County, completed plans for the two weeks course.

Teachers and lecturers of national reputation will be present during the entire course and classes will be conducted in family case work, juvenile court work and community organization. Besides the out-of-state teachers, Mrs. A. M. Funstall, former director of the child welfare department will conduct a class in social legislation. Mrs. Florence Adams, newly elected extension secretary of the child welfare department, will hold round table discussions daily with the county welfare workers, giving them an opportunity to discuss their problems with her. Other social workers in the state will lend their experience to the course.

Students at the short course will be housed in Ramsey Hall, the new dormitory, on the campus, so that their comfort will be assured. A swimming pool will be available and other recreational features.

NO REPORTS MADE

No reports have yet been made in the Boy Scout campaign in these two cities and it is necessary that workers continue efforts throughout the coming week, it was stated today by Charles Rountree, general chairman. "Between $1,700 and $1,800 have been raised," said Mr. Rountree, "that is far from the $3,000 quota necessary."

Tennessee, already with several famous resorts to her credit, has launched an organized campaign to increase their popularity and the popularity of others. That is the spirit which makes states great. Here in Alabama, we could take a lesson from the same book. There are any number of splendid resort locations in this state, including our own Valhermosa Springs, in Morgan county, where several different kinds of mineral water make their exit from the earth within a space no larger than 12 feet square. In this connection it is gratifying to read in the Anniston Star of the purchase of Borden Springs property near Heflin by a Florida man, who, it is presumed, intends development of the resort on a big scale.

arrive, the next day Kilby's workers will be on hand, then Hugo Black and Bankhead will send delegations into Morgan, perhaps they may honor the Valley sections with visits. Of course we are all tremendously interested in the governor's race and the attorney general's race, with Andrew G. Patterson and Judge Thomas W. Wert, Morgan countians in the running, but we must give consideration to the man who is going to fill Oscar W. Underwood's shoes. It's not going to be done in a night, a day, or a year, it's a hard place to fill and the vote of the people of Alabama should be cast after sincere consideration has been given to the issues and the men.

JUDGE KYLE'S VIEW UPON THE IMPORTANCE OF POLITICAL STUDY

Judge Osceola Kyle, who is recognized as one of the ablest jurists in this state, adjourned court Wednesday to allow the people of Madison county to hear the issues in the gubernatorial campaign explained. Such action is not the usual thing, but surely has Judge Kyle set a precedent that will stand for some time to come as a means toward constructiveness. If people were given the time, or if they should take the time to study the issues in gubernatorial, or any kind of campaigns for that matter, it is probable that our public offices would be filled with able and efficient office holders. Usually the people refuse to study the principles upon which a man is standing and the result is felt after the candidate goes into office, then there follow series of howls until the term of the offending candidate has expired. These things, these injustices to the people can be removed if the general public would share the view of Judge Kyle in the importance of issues, rather than men and friends.

THE ENGLISH STRIKE TAKES A TURN FOR THE WORST

On the front page of The Daily Thursday there was an announcement of a renewal of the British general strike, simultaneously, on its editorial page, there was an announcement that the strike had been brought to a close.
Today as this editorial appears, the writer hopes that the reverse will be found on the front page of The Daily.
The British strike can bring no good to the British public, it is the public that always foots the bill. The public is in the majority the strikers of the nation, the great laboring class. Capitalists are a vast portion of the public, of course, but they are not affected like other classes and can bear the burden of a strike much longer than the striking class or the rest of the public. News that the strike has taken a turn for the worse carries forebodings of ill to American shores. It is the employers this time and there is no telling just how long the employers will hold out, they are more firmly entrenched than the strikers, they do not have to worry about their own stomachs or the dinner pails of their families. May parliament bring the factions together.

ONE OF THE REASONS FOR THE GROWTH OF A NEIGHBORING CITY

This is the third short editorial inspired today by a visit to the Madison county capital, Huntsville. The writer after having enjoyed the hospitality of the Madison people for a few short hours discovered one of the reasons for the growth of that North Alabama city. The people of Huntsville, like other North Alabama citizens, are proud of their location in the Tennessee Valley, they are happy to say a good word for the Tennessee Valley, they are not stingy with good words to the stranger. After all, the good will of a city or a town has much to do with the general prosperity of that point. People from the outside wish to come back again, they not only go there for business reasons, but they go there because they like to be greeted with a handshake and a smile. That is typical Huntsville greeting. It is likewise typical of other Valley cities, a doctrine that stands for progressiveness, friendliness and leads to more constructive criticism for a city than all the tall buildings and paved streets combined. When a man gains a pleasure in going to a city, then you will soon see him going back over the same road, no matter what its condition, to that city again. It works everywhere, but better in the Tennessee Valley, we have so much more to offer as sidelines than other localities.

PATTERSON EXPLAINS ATTITUDE TOWARD ROAD BOND ISSUE

Andrew G. Patterson, "Morgan's own," in the governor's race, clearly stated his position on the question of good roads in Alabama in a stirring address at Huntsville on Wednesday. The gubernatorial candidate and present chief of the Public Service commission followed his usual line of constructive reasoning, leaving out the usual political "bunk" in presenting his issues to the people of Madison county. Mr. Patterson presents facts when he talks, that's what makes his talk interesting and what makes his candidacy strong over the state. Mr. Patterson declared that in the past four years the state of Alabama has averaged $5,000,000 a year for highways. He then told the people of Huntsville that he planned to raise $8,000,000 a year without a bond issue to be spent on the roads. He proposes to raise this $8,000,000 through the gasoline tax, the motor license tax and by working convict labor on the roads. This last item, it is estimated, will save the state of Alabama $1,500,000 annually. Then in all fairness to the opinions of his opponents, Mr. Patterson declared: "If this is not sufficient, I shall advocate a bond issue for I have always been identified with the good roads movement in the state and will continue in the forefront for such constructiveness." Such argument as this is indeed constructive, particularly when it deals with one of the main issues in the state campaign.

AN EDITORIAL OF FEW WORDS, NEEDING NO COMMENT

Ever so often The Daily takes occasion to publish articles from newspapers coming to the exchange desks.
Usually The Daily adds its own comments, fights back or lauds, but here is an editorial from the Florence Herald that needs no comment. The Daily only asks that you draw your own conclusion:

Most newspaper men shrink from the task of writing up a swell wedding and prefer to pass that responsible duty to a female society editor. Yet there are exceptions. Occasionally an editor is found who can paint word pictures of nuptial events that any lady reporter might envy.

We just discovered one like that who appears to be hiding his great talents in an obscure Kansas town, while he ought to be holding down a big city job.
Here is a sample of his literary ability, which proves
our point:

"It was a wonderful wedding. The girl was as sweet as any girl who ever lived, but modern. As she walked up the aisle, her lips lightly tilted at the corners with a happy smile, she was a picture of modest beauty. Her filmy wedding gown and gassamer veil floated around her fair blonde head like a halo. She was as nearly an angel as girls get to be in this world. At the altar as she passed from her father, the man she had always loved to the other man to whom she would devote the rest of her life, her dainty slipper touched a potted lily resting on the floor and turned it over. Smiling again, she turned to the dear old pastor waiting at the chancel and said: 'That was a hell of a place to put a lily.'"

WHAT IS TO BE DONE ABOUT IMPROVE- MENT OF ECHOLS HILL?

The Daily, from time to time, has had much to say regarding the condition of Echols Hill. With the full knowledge of its condition possessed by those who traverse the Bee Line highway in that section, it is needless then to do more now than say the condition is bad.

This is a circumstance that we all recognize. Obviously the next step is, what will we do about it? That the Daily is unable to answer. This newspaper would be glad to welcome constructive suggestions along this line from its readers.

There seems to be some misunderstanding regarding the responsibility for this thoroughfare which happens to have been once a street and also part of a great Southern highway. The Daily has been informed that there is some question of right-of-way or curves to be threshed out before the government will lend any aid in its reconstruction. This information may not be entirely correct, but evidently there is something wrong.

The Echols Hill road is the neck of the bottle through which passes practically all of the north and south bound traffic through the Twin Cities. It is not to our credit that the condition of this road is what it is.

Here is a problem which all local agencies could utilize a part of their time in solving. Here is something that the Kiwanis club could work on, the Junior Chamber of Commerce could give attention to and the Albany city council well could discuss.

There is no disputing the fact that a bad road, without improvement and under the handicap of heavy traffic, continually gets worse. So it is with Echols hill. If we continue to neglect its improvement, it will continually get worse, granting that such a thing is possible.

Aside from the fact that to travel over a road in the condition the Echols Hill highway is, is a needless hardship on the public, there is another side to be considered, and a most important angle, in the opinion of The Daily.

This is the impression created on visitors by the road.
Bear in mind that Echols Hill is the first thoroughfare
north-bound visitors traverse when they enter the city.
First impressions are important. So are last impressions, and do not forget that it is the last thoroughfare traversed by south-bound travellers. There is no escaping the importance of the road.

For the sake of our civic pride, if nothing else, let's do something about it.

den in the earth millions of years ago. Good credit should go to Fokker, who manufactured the airplane that carried him.

MORE important than flying over the pole is progress as shown in the change from dog sled to flying machine.

In a few years anybody that chooses to sail through cold air may look down upon, approximately, the place where the north pole is. Commander Byrd could not within twenty miles locate the pole exactly.

Many semi-human beings may have been there before him, in past geological eras, when another spot on earth was the north pole, and another star, the "polar star."

THIS FINGING, shifting earth, turning round before the sun like a spitted fowl before the fire changes its position and its "poles" through the ages. Men have lived here five hundred thousand years, at least,
and have seen many a shift. Naked savages, probably hunted tiger-like animals on the spot that we now
call the north pole.

But an American was first to fly over the frozen pole of today. That is something.

THIS paragraph helps us to realize what the flying machine will mean to transportation. Byrd intended to return by way of Peary-land, and estimated that the round trip of 1600 miles would require 24 hours. He beat his own estimate by 8 1-2 hours.

Sixteen hundred miles over the frozen north in 15 1-2 hours.
This means that Chicago will soon be 3 hours from New York city and 7 hours from the Pacific coast.

CONGRATULATIONS are due to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Edsel Ford and Vincent Astor who supplied money for Commander Byrd's flight.

The plane was named "the Josephine Ford," for Edsel Ford's daughter, granddaughter of Henry Ford. The fact that it wasn't a Ford flying machine made no difference to Edsel Ford, who wants to promote flying, however it can be done.

VINCENT ASTOR who established one of the first commercial lines in the country from Newport to New York, some years ago, and gave it up, when one flight ended disastrously, should return to commercial aviation. He has enthusiasm, a large fortune and ought to inherit a knowledge of real estate. He could be richer than all of his cousins in twenty years if he located air ports at present real estate prices near the big cities, and started in aerial transportation as old Cornelius Vanderbilt steam railways.

NO REALLY important news in the British strike except that rioting is more serious. A way out will be found, with extremes of violence.

J. H. Thomas head of the railway unions, formerly minister of colonies in the cabinet of Ramsay Macdonald, says there will be no politics
in the strike, and no Russian Bolshevik methods.

CARDINAL BOURNE, at a high mass in London's Westminster Cathedral, has called upon Catholics to remain on the side of the government. "It is necessary," he said, "that Catholics should face clearly the fact that there is no justification for a general strike."

PREMIER BALDWIN discusses the strike, not face to face with the

My diary while touring the North

Thursday, April 16th: Arrived
Spitzbergen on time, there being no set for our arrival. Populace anxiously awaited our landing, our arrival having cut off their sunshine
which was very much needed.

Friday, the 17th: "Succeeded" in ter lunch and just woke up in time to

Monday, May 9th: Been here two days. Thinking of quitting. He

Tuesday, the 10th: Guessed right.
He's been there and back and says

I quit fishing. Heading due North our eyes shut. No telling where land, May never land at all.

Thursday: Have seen scarcely anything since leaving Spitzbergen. Roads in poor condition. Must have hit on pike. Saw something just now that appeared to be North Pole but it did not seem to be only the ice chimney of an igloo. Esquimaux, however warming little one by rolling him
now. Crops are backward owing to spring. No boll weevil report here as yet. Also health of company seems to be good. Blamed

a half mile. Makes me shudder think what would have happened to the berg. Also us. Particularly us. Thought saw another Pole but was only the one Doc Cook discovered

before he settled in Texas prison.

Next day: North Pole in sight. Hurray! Wouldn't have known what it was if I hadn't been used to seeing them. Thrilling sight, once you get worked up to right pitch. Hurray again. Flew right over it and never touched it. Backed off and circled it a few times, which is actually cir-cumnavigating the globe. Wonder where we go from here. Wish we were there. Turning colder. Think I'll put on my featherbed. Flew over Pole once more just for luck and spit on its just to show how bored we are.

Wish we were some other place. No boom on here. Now heading for Nome

Alaska. Well, that beats this town—country. Looks for the world like we are heading straight for a big mountain and the hereafter. "Now I lay me

P. T. A. MEETING IN TRINITY

The P. T. A. met in regular session in the chapel of the school building on Wednesday afternoon. Thirty answered roll call. Mrs. Rayburn Neville presided.

"Glory, Glory, Halleluh" was used as the opening hymn.

Reports from the various officers were given, the report of the treasurer being especially gratifying.

Mrs. Virginia Lile read an interesting article from the "Child Welfare Magazine" in which particular stress was laid on the home training of children.

Mrs. Frank Emens in a few, well-chosen words thanked the members of the faculty for their interest and their hearty co-operation in all the affairs pertaining to community uplift during the year. The principal, Mr. Poe and wife were re-elected for the ensuing year, and both in turn thanked the association for the part it played in making their stay in Trinity both pleasant and profitable. The election of officers resulted in the following: president, Mrs. Rayburn Neville; vice president, Mrs. Poe; Secretary, Mrs. Will Emens, treasurer, Miss Lucile Sharnack.

The hospitality committee composed of Mesdames Nunn, Gamble, Davis and Emens invited the ladies to the new building where dainty tables were spread, decorated with baskets and bowls of red, pink and white roses.

Red, pink and white candles in tall crystal candle sticks shed a soft light as the high school girls in pink dresses and white caps served delicious cream and angel food cake.

School closes next week but the Association will still hold meetings once a month during the summer. The meeting closed with the singing of "A Perfect Day."

MRS. JONES HONORED

Mrs. Leroy McEntire was a lovely bridge hostess of Thursday afternoon entertaining the members of the Silk Stocking and a few other complimenting her sister, Mrs. R. E. Jones, of Jacksonville, Fla., who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Almon.

The tables for the game were arranged in the living room and dining room and these were made prettier with the use of gorgeous pink peonies and pink roses in the former and red and white roses in the latter.

Three prizes were offered, one to the highest club scorer, and one to the guest having top score and another to the player cutting lowest card. Mrs. Frank Lide received the club prize, a pair of silk hose, Mrs. W. K. McNeill the guest souvenir an embroidered luncheon set and the consolation, a set of hand-painted candle shades, was awarded Mrs. George Wallace. After the presentation, the hostess served fruit salad, sandwiches and tea.

Those included in this hospitality were: Mrs. R. E. Jones, Mrs. Will Wyker, Mrs. W. M. Voorhies, Mrs. H. H. May, Mrs. S. W. Irwin, Mrs. E. S. Hunt, Mrs. George Wallace, Mrs. Ellen Ballas, Mrs. Sarah Jeffries, Mrs. Stanley Wyatt, Mrs. W. K. McNeill, Miss Jane Knight, Mrs. Frank Lide, Mrs. C. L. Saunders, Mrs. T. M. Jones Jr., Mrs. H. D. Helpful Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my early teens and am in love with my cousin. He says he loves me but he is very jealous and doesn't want me to talk to other boys. Do you think I ought to give him up?

DIMPLES: You must explain to your cousin that since you are not engaged to marry him it is your privilege to go about with other young men. Make him understand that you do not wish to restrict his friendship either, and I think he will agree that your attitude is the right one.

Mr. and Mrs. Welden West and family of Birmingham are the expected guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert West of West Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Griffin, son and daughter, Hurshel and Margaret, are visiting relatives for a few days in St. Joseph and Leona, Tenn. They made the trip by motor.

Two States Mark Soldiers Graves

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 14.—The states of Alabama and Tennessee have joined hands with the purpose of marking and maintaining the graves of thirty-six Tennessee soldiers who died under Gen. Andrew Jackson's command at old Fort Williams, Ala.

The resting place of these soldiers, most of whom died at camp from measles or other disease during Jackson's campaign against the Creek Nation more than a hundred years ago, have just been located at Fort Williams, ten miles from the city of Sylacauga, in Talladega county, Ala., by state officials, historians and patriotic other men and women of the two states.

John Trotwood Moore, Tennessee state historian and archivist, has just visited the old fort and will search the Tennessee state archives for the names of the sons of the Volunteer state who lie buried above the inextinguishable beds of the famous Alabama white marble, now unmarked. The old fort will be preserved, fenced in and a huge shaft to be cut from the native marble will mark their last resting places with the names of each Tennessee soldier engraved in its sides.

A memorial association was formed by the large number of citizens who located the fort and graves with Peter A. Brannon, director of archives and history of Alabama, as president; Mr. Moore, as vice-president, and Editor Greer, of the Sylacauga News, as secretary.

Jackson camped at Fort Williams just before his campaign against the Creek Indians, when he wiped out their nation because they refused to surrender in the Battle of Horseshoe Bend and the extermination of these allies of the British cleared the way for the Tennessee General to go to New Orleans and conquer the British. More than a thousand of the warriors were killed in the fire and aft attack and only about 300 of their women and children were saved in the famous battle.

This is a tough old world and it isn't probable that any radio announcer really is as genial as he sounds.

Officer: "Shall we take him into that undertaker's shop or to the drug store?"

Victim (raising his head): "Take me to the drug store first, you dare fool."

Thank God for home. You can hang up your hat without paying a dime to get it back.

He: I'm ashamed of my failure to keep abreast of modern science. Take the electric light, for instance. I haven't the least idea how it works.

Sweet Young Thing: Why, it's very simple. You just press a button and the light comes on.

The start pupil rose at the school entertainment to declaim his piece. "I'll give your ears," he bawled. "Ha," sneered the mother of the pupil whom he had defeated for honors, "that's Sarah Jane Doran's boy all right. He wouldn't be his mother's son if he didn't want to borrow something."

Gather ye glances while ye may, Short skirts are growing shorter and the man in the street is more blasé Than an aged Pullman porter.

So be not coy, but do your stuff, And here's a tip as a starter: If you're not attracting attention enough Just hang a bell on your garter!

Pamela (who had been told to brush her teeth): "Mother, you always ask me to do that, and it's my favorite thing I hate to do."

One of the hardest things the girl of today has to do is to convince a man that he is the "big cheese" after he has heard her talk over the phone to another of his species.

Nature has endowed many a fellow with the ability to make a fool of himself without exciting any comment.

Who is the man, who having nothing to say, says it.

Derby Favorites Go Through The Box Today In Final Lineup For 52nd Race

LOUISVILLE, May 14.—Derby devotees throughout the country turned toward the racing secretary's office at Churchill Downs, for at 10:30 o'clock this morning entries for the fifty-second Kentucky derby went through the box.

Pompey and Bubbling Over, representatives of the east and of the west now appear to be the outstanding favorites. Both have shown that they are superior runners and turfmen, after watching Pompey show a sensational burst of speed in his work on this morning, called it a two-horse race. But derby history shows that it is not always the favorite that wins or even shows, as was the case last year when Quattrain was badly beaten.

That the derby will be one of the fastest in several years seems probable because of the known speed of the two favorites. They are expected to begin running at the rise of the barrier and try to keep ahead of the bar for the whole mile and a quarter.

With few exceptions, the horse that got the lead in the first quarter has won previous derby's.

Throng To Attend
The greatest throng of all time is coming to the derby this year. Seventy-four special trains, the first few of which arrived today, have been arranged to bring a large quota of visitors to Louisville, passenger departnents of eight railroads reported today.

Pullman sleeping cars on these trains and on regular trains due here are expected to total 740 according to an estimate made by the Pullman company.

With arrangements for rail transportation practically completed, various agencies in the city prepared to entertain and house the visitors. Hotel facilities were so crowded today that a murder trial had to be postponed because court officials could not find a place to keep the jury during the trial.

Intersectional interest will be greater this year than ever before because of the unusual large number of eastern horses here for the race. Six horses owned by eastern sportsmen are to be entered, and about the same number will represent the west. The past performances of these candidates as two year olds, taken as a whole, probably have not been equaled by any former aspirants for the derby in the 51 years that the event has been decided. And of these, Pompey was the champion with eight victories, two seconds and one eighth in eleven starts. His money winnings for the year totaled $121,630. Canter also won more than $100,000 as a two year old.

Weather Men Quiet
Weather bureau officials declined to comment last night upon the weather outlook for derby day. A low area and cloudiness in this section has unsettled conditions, J. L. Kendall, meteorologist, in charge here, said: "We'll have something to say tomorrow," he added.

Derby eve sports include a ten round, no decision fight between Buddy Taylor and Tommy Ryan, featherweight, and a wrestling match between Jack Reynolds, world's welterweight champion, and Eugene Tremblay, Canadian and European champion.

WHEN we say that Osteo-path-ik Shoes fit comfortably all over, we mean just that. A glove-fitting heel prevents up-and-down play. A firm, snug arch keeps foot from sliding forward. An extra-wide ball gives perfect freedom to toes. Every part of the foot functions as it should, without pinching or chafing. And there are no tacks in the heel to irritate the foot and wear out socks. Add to these advantages real style and low price, and you have the reasons why your next pair of shoes should be Osteo-path-iks. Your local dealer can supply you. If he cannot, write us.
